1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 33-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors. Additionally the claims are indefinite because portions thereof are confusing and/or do not read properly. As one example only, the phrase including “and/or” in claim 33 line 3 is confusing. For example what is intended by “over and in a catcher tank”? In another example only, the last two lines of claim 33 are difficult to understand. In yet another example it is not clear how the terminology in brackets (see for example only, claim 37) is intended to be further limiting. Corrections are required wherever appropriate but not specifically pointed out.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 33-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Spears or Curlett et al. Either reference appears to have most of the elements of the claims but may lack elements such as the cutting recited in the preamble of claim 33. On the other hand there appears to be no specific step of cutting recited in the claim. In any event it would have been obvious to utilize the apparatus of Spears or Curlett in the methods claimed, including in a cutting operation, in order to provide a convenient method of cutting and/or recycling the abrasive.
